

JUAREZ IN THE CENTER OF HARD FIGHTING BETWEEN REBELS AND THE FEDERAL FORCES TODAY; MANY WERE REPORTED KILLED

REBELS HAVE GAINED THE CITY AND GEN. NAVARRO IS HOLD-ING OUT WITH SMALL FORCE OF MEN WHO HAVE NOT DESERTED HIM.

MADERO LED ATTACK

Insurgent Leader Starts Fight Upon
the Capital of Northern Mexico at Four This Morning and at Night Practically Controlled
the Situation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
El Paso, May 8.—At 4:30 this morning a general attack by the insurgents was begun on Juarez.

Continuous firing during the night indicated the rebels pressed closely the advantage gained yesterday by forcing the federals from the trenches and outlying fortifications near Juarez.

The decision to attack was made after the envoy, sent to General Navarro, had returned, saying he refused to surrender.

The attack by the insurgents was begun by a detachment stationed in the Adobe House near the Stanton street bridge.

With a machine gun leveled to sweep the main streets of Juarez, they opened fire at daybreak.

Thousands of residents of El Paso are watching the fighting from the roof tops.

The United States troops ordered everybody on the American side to stay three blocks away from the river front.

Americans Shot.

Col. Villard, the insurgent chief,
was advancing on Juarez this morning with six hundred men fresh from the siege of Ojinaga, while Gen. In-dago was advancing to Juarez with a strong command. A strong command has been assigned to oppose him and Madero has no fear from that source. Since the fighting began this morning two Americans have been shot. Mrs. Josefa Garcia and son, the former wounded in the neck. The rebels used machine guns sparingly while the federals poured shells into the insurgent outposts. The range of the federal artillery was remarkably accurate, their shells landing close to the on-coming insurgents and forcing them to scatter. Capt. Lindorf, an American, who commanded the small body of men who first attacked Juarez, has been killed, together with five others of his command.

Two privates of the American lo-gion, with insurgents, came to El Paso this morning to get food. They stated that fifteen Americans had already been killed and wounded and the rebel losses would probably reach 150 killed and wounded, and the federal loss was more than double that amount.

In one trench they counted forty-seven dead federals, and in another, thirty-eight. Gen. Alarcon admitted today he had given his consent to the general attack on Juarez. The probable cause of the battle will continue throughout the day. Gen. Madero has gone to the front to survey the progress of the fight.

An Associated Press correspondent returned from the interior of Juarez at 12:10 and reported the rebels were slowly gaining possession of the town.

The federals are keeping up a continuous fire at the church in the center of the town, but from no other point.

Col. Garibaldi said that of all the Americans in his command, only one,
a man named Kelly, has been killed,
and Capt. Lindorf, his chief officer, was unhurt.

Peace Is Signed?

London, May 8.—Lord Cowdray received a message this morning from J. B. Roddy, a director of his firm, now in Mexico City, saying: "Peace is signed." Cowdray is president of a British firm of contractors having extensive interests in Mexico.

In Lower California.

Tinajas, Cal., May 8.—The Mexican
town of Tinajas, in lower California, across the line, was captured by insurgents at five o'clock this morning.
Many are dead and wounded on both sides, but it is impossible to learn definitely, how many, as the United States refuse to allow anyone to cross into the Mexican town. Buildings in the town were fired by the rebels and dead bodies are visible through field glasses, in the streets.

The attacking party was composed largely of Americans who were led by Captain Price. During the fighting early this morning many of the wounded insurgents crawled across the boundary line and gave themselves up to the United States troops.

The fighting was fiercest early this morning and the capture of the city by the insurgents followed a stubborn resistance on the part of the federal garrison, who retreated, firing, from one street to another.

New Complications.

Mexico City, May 8.—Now complications over the killing of Americans on the border are expected, though the American ambassador had received no instructions on the subject from his government this morning.

Later Dispatch.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
El Paso, May 8.—Additional American troops, which arrived today, established a heavy border patrol. Only the refugee women and children were allowed to cross the border to the American side. At noon the insurgents had gained practical control of the city, although it was reported that General Navarro, supported by only a few of his troops, the remainder having fled, defied the rebels from one of the strongest buildings.

The heavy cannon fire has laid a portion of the city in ruins, many buildings having burned to the ground.

"Hands Off."

STATE DEMOCRATS TO MAKE MONSTER FIGHT WITH DODGE AT HEAD

Former Supreme Justice J. C. Dodge of Milwaukee Expected to Lead Democracy in Big Campaign.

Madison, Wis., May 8.—Democracy in Wisconsin is quietly getting ready to make a fight for political supremacy of Wisconsin that will mean something. To this end, the leaders of that party, many of whom are now gathering for the legislative session, have about settled upon the man who they hope will consent to lead this fight, and the boom for him has attained really enormous proportions.

He is Joshua E. Dodge of Milwaukee, who a few months ago resigned as a justice of the state supreme court. Judge Dodge is one of those democrats who are a member of the highest tribunal was not a partisan, but who throughout the years of political and factional strife in this state has been identified with the Democrats.

It is during legislative sessions that most booms have their inception—when plans for campaigns in the somewhat distant future are tentatively mapped out—and the democratic majority here has not been letting the grass grow under its feet.

At the informal conferences of this minority membership here it has been pointed out that the chances for capturing this state in 1912 are excellent.
It is the belief of this contingent that unless Gov. McGovern goes to the United States senate he will be a candidate for re-election, and they argue that so far he has accomplished little in the way of harmonizing factions and sub-factions or even of asserting the sort of leadership that ordinarily has been expected of a man in his position. Naturally, the governor may materially change this opinion of his administration that is held by "way-up" democrats before the present session is closed, but it is at least significant that they are quite satisfied at present with the way affairs are going.

In this connection it may be pointed out that the democrats here hold regular caucuses—in other words, "sleek together." The social democrats do so as a matter of course, but the republicans right now are split on propositions of varying moment, some of which approach the numerical proportions of a dozen caucuses, some of which are of real, simple, pure faction.
Men closely supporting the administration meet frequently and decide courses of action, but the rest for the most part are blissfully ignorant of what is going on.

The coherence among the democrats, therefore, gives considerable impetus to their propaganda and there is a unanimity about their actions which is quite sharply defined, against the varying emotions of the republican majority.

DIETZ MADE MOTION FOR HIS DISMISSAL BUT JUDGE DENIED

Cameron Dam Defender Moved for Defendants' Dismissal at Opening of Trial This Morning and Was Refused.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Hayward, Wis., May 8.—John F.
Dietz made a brief motion for dismissal of the defendants in his trial when court convened today, which was denied by Judge Reid.

Dietz held in his motion for acquittal that deputies Van Alstyne and Forster admitted firing on a line with Oscar Harp the dead deputy. That Van Alstyne admitted firing a steel jacketed bullet the same as found in Harp, and among other things, no evidence was produced to show that he was in the barn lot.

Judge Reid in denying the motion declared it was a question for a jury to decide whether murder had been committed.

Dietz today declared he, his wife and his son knew nothing about the death of Deputy Harp, therefore, why should they take the stand to testify.
Attorney M. L. Sturdevant, chief counsel for the state declared this statement of Dietz was an admission that Dietz did not know what his defense will be. He said the testimony of all defense witnesses would be easy to refute.

larger report to come from the pres-

of the data was in charge of and su-

38 to 35, was referred to the committee on elections with amendments.
The measure was moved to a third consider it. The measure has passed the senate.

VAST IRRIGATION PROJECTS OF U. S.

FACTS AND FIGURES CONCERN-ING GOVERNMENT RECLAMA-TION SERVICE.

MILLIONS OF ACRES

Arid Wastes Have Been Transformed
and Places Provided For Over A Hundred Thousand Homes.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Washington, May 8.—A graphic statement of the vast extent of the government's irrigation projects and the success that attends their operation was made today by C. J. Blanchard, statistician of the Reclamation Service, who has returned from a tour of inspection.

"At the present time there are 28
projects in various stages of construction," said Blanchard. "The total acreage involved in these projects is 3,200,000 which will provide homes for approximately 320,000 persons on farms, and an equal number in cities, towns, and villages within this area or in the neighborhood thereof, or a total of 640,000 people. The total area now under water is 1,000,000 acres, on which have been established approximately 14,000 families and an equal number have taken up their homes in the cities, towns, and villages.

"The progress of the engineers has been rapid, notwithstanding the isolated location of the principal engineering works from transportation and the many difficulties which have been encountered in the 'promotion' of the work. Up to the present time the canal systems constructed have a total length of 5,621 miles. Many of these canals carry whole rivers. Placed end to end they would reach from New York City to San Francisco and back to New Orleans. Tunnels having a total length of 16 miles have been excavated, mostly through mountains.
The excavation of rock and earth amount to the enormous total of 66, 000,000 cubic yards, or more than one third of the yardage required for the Panama Canal. Owing to the location of some of the principal works in regions heretofore inaccessible, the Reclamation Service has been compelled to construct 555 miles of wagon roads, some of which are in the most rugged country on this continent. The service has in operation 1,500 miles of telephones, 275 miles of transmission lines, and is furnishing power and light for municipal and manufacturing uses to seven cities and towns from its own power plants.

"The investment of the government in the projects now under construction is $62,208,000. The total completed cost of these projects when completed is $145,000,000. The allotment to cover the work during the present fiscal year is $10,000,000. This does not include the issue of $20,000, 000 in certificates, which will be available when required.

"Using as a basis the present value per acre of irrigated land in the projects of the Government with sufficient water right, it is conservative to state that the total value of all the lands under these projects when irrigated will exceed $200,000,000. These lands are vitally mortgaged to the Government to repay the cost of the irrigation systems, which is computed at $15,000,000.

"The gross value of crops produced in 1910 on lands which were supplied by the Government irrigation systems approximated $10,000,000. The value of the improvements of the settlers, including buildings, fences, etc., is $7,500,000. The value of live stock is $2,400,000. The total increase in the values including lands, implements, buildings, live stock, etc., as a result of providing irrigation for these farms, is not less than $40,000,000. Comparing the former selling prices of the other lands which are included in the government projects but not yet irrigated, with the prices at which they are now being sold, an additional increase in value of $30,000,000 is shown as a result of this development.

"There is no more hopeful sign in connection with the home-building work of the Government than the surprisingly large number of settlers who have left the cities and towns to take up their homes in the desert. The reports from the field are gratifying for the reason that a very small percentage of failures is shown.

"Information from all sources shows no diminution in the movement of the people to the West. Railroads report that the travel has been about the average, with a promise of great increase in the fall.

"At present the government farms are limited to five projects, and includes only 386 farm units. The field forces are pushing forward the work of extension of canals in order to make ready for settlers a large area of new lands, some of which will probably be opened in the fall.

"The question 'can a merchant, mechanic, lawyer, doctor, or other professional man succeed as a farmer in the West?' has always been answered, given good health, a small capital to make a start, and a willingness to work, and the answer in most cases is 'Yes.'"

Little Bed-Time Tales By EDITH HAVENS

The Boy Who Told the Wrong Story

YOU have had enough candy for today," said Morris' mother as she made ready to go down town. "I am going to trust you not to eat any more while I am gone," she added, as she opened the door to the street.

The front door slammed and she was gone.

Alone, the thought of the candy—how delicious it was—crept into Morris' mind and then he thought to himself, "If I took just a little piece how would mother know it?"

Then the thought of how she said she would trust him came back to him and for the moment he felt very much ashamed. Still he could not get the candy out of his mind.

He went to the dining room closet and opening the door looked at the dish up on the second shelf. He counted the pieces. There were fourteen.

"She will never know if I take just one," he said to himself.

Guilty he looked about the room as if he thought his mother might be watching him and then he reached up and took one of the pieces of candy from the dish. He placed it in his mouth and began to chew.

He shut the closet door and went to the window. It was getting dark outside and the lamplight came up but he felt all the time that his mother was coming back up the street.

He ran quickly to the center of the room and picking up one of his toys he tried to make believe he was playing. Do you know never after that did Morris tell a wrong story?

JAPANESE TOSSERS TO MEET BEST OF COLLEGE NINES—UNIVERSITY OF WASEDA BASEBALL TEAM, JUST ARRIVED FROM JAPAN FOR A TOUR OF THE UNITED STATES.

San Francisco, Cal.—"Waseeda, Waseeda, Waseeda!" "Da waseeda, da waseeda, da waseeda!" At least that is what the Japanese ball players said as the Nippon Maru ran alongside the Western Pacific pier. It was their reply to a chorus of "Ohios" from a crowd of their little brown countrymen on the dock. It sounded even more than it looks when reduced to writing. It is the Waseda university yell.

If they can play ball as well as they can yell, there will be some surprised ball players in the ranks of the local amateurs. It is O. Page of the University of Chicago, who met the visitors before the liner left quarantine, new from Japan and declares that their game is a high class article and calculated to win respect for the sons of Nippon. There are fourteen players on the visiting team and they are in charge of Professor T. Takasugi, a member of the faculty of the Waseda college.

The Japanese ball players have taken rooms at the St. Francis and will follow the program laid out for them as far as their stay in this city is concerned. They were invited to the United States by the University of Chicago, and H. O. Page of the Rockefeller college will be their guide and business manager while in this country.

Before going east they will meet Stanford University, Santa Clara college, the University of California and some of the high school teams. On the way to Chicago, where they are due May 8, they will linger at Salt Lake City long enough to play the University of Utah. They will also meet the University of Colorado team before they reach Chicago. After their Chicago engagements they will proceed to New York, and from there come direct to San Francisco.

The members of the team are: T. Omura, K. Yamato, M. Fukubuki, K. Hara, G. Mitsumi, M. Omachi, O. Watanabe, M. Fukunaga, K. Inoue, H. Matsuda, H. Oi, S. Tachibana, M. Yamamoto and T. Yamaguchi.

Chicago, Ill.—Considerable pressure is being brought to bear to bring about arbitration in the Chicago strike troubles. Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, is here in conference with the organization leaders. Mayor Harrison has been appealed to by freight handlers to assist in settling their disputes with the railroad. Labor Commissioner C. Noll is in the city and COLLAPSIBLE BICYCLE THE LATEST FAD. Bicycle which can be folded up and put in a leather case not much larger than the ordinary suitcase.

New York.—The latest development in the bicycle may receive its popular birth, especially among tourists. This invention is the work of an Englishman, John Robinson, who is now touring America. After three years' study he has developed a bicycle which can be folded up and completely dismantled so that it will fit into a case not much larger than the ordinary suitcase.

Mr. Robinson has been touring America and already has 2,000 miles to his credit on the wheel.

Everything about this unique wheel can be taken apart. This is done by

To make the bicycle light, aluminum is used almost throughout. The wheels are undersized to make the leather case smaller. Everything is constructed so that it will fold down flat. The picture shows John Robinson holding his collapsible bicycle half way dismantled.

CANAL YIELDS BODY OF ELSIE PAROUBEK

Body of Girl Supposed To Have Been Kidnaped By Gipsies and For Whom Local Authorities Searched, Found At Lockport.

The body of Elsie Paroubek, the little Chicago girl who was supposed to have been kidnaped on April 8th, and for whom the entire middle west has been searching, was found at the dam in the canal at Lockport, Ill., last evening.

Employers of the power plant discovered the body about dusk and from the description in the newspapers were led to believe that it was the missing Chicago girl. The body was taken to the morgue and there was identified by the father, Frank Paroubek, some hours later.

It is thought that the girl was led away by the sounds of an Italian organ grinder's music on the fateful day and wandered to the canal, where she fell in and drowned.

The search which ensued was a most thorough one and for weeks it was thought that the missing child had been kidnaped by a wandering band of gypsies. It was on this eve that the local authorities worked when they raked a camp of these travelers at dawn about two weeks ago. Other searches of like character had been made afterwards.

SUIT INVOLVING BIG SUM IS BEING TRIED

Case of Norton vs. Clark Started Today Involves Large Sum of Money—Said To Be $130,000.

Taking of depositions in the case of Norton against Clark occupied most of the afternoon in the circuit court today. When the taking of testimony starts the case will undoubtedly be strong during the remainder of the week. The plaintiff was formerly the wife of the defendant and was later divorced. The plaintiff alleges that during their married life, the defendant brought pressure to bear upon her parents and so arranged matters that he was put in charge of a great part of the management of the business affairs and estates. The suit is to recover the losses of the plaintiff through this arrangement and is said to involve a sum in the neighborhood of $130,000.

Both parties are residents of Chicago. Soon after the papers were served the mother-in-law died and this tends to complicate the case further. Jeffery, Avery, Mount and Oestreich are handling the case for the plaintiff and the defense is in charge of Attorneys Sutherland and Pierce.

START CELEBRATION SUBSCRIPTION LIST

Necessity for Raising Funds for the Big Doings Here July 3d, 4th and 5th, Hartens Work.

Secretary John Gollner of the Joint committee of the Industrial and Commercial club and the Harry L. Gifford camp of the United Spanish War Veterans, started his work of raising funds for the big celebration today. From now on the campaign will be waged fast and furious until the money needed is subscribed.

Mr. Gollner has devised a bond system issue to meet the requirements of the occasion. By this means he hopes that many who have in the past given small sums may be induced to donate or even triple their donations if they are assured a return of their money if the affair is successful.

While not a hard case persons have thus far been dollar bonds subscribed for, others have signified to different members of the joint committee that they would take bonds for twenty-five or fifty dollars. This is most encouraging to the committee and the remainder of the subscriptions are as large in proportion it will assure the success of the celebration.

The bonds are to be issued by the joint committee, of which Mr. Gollner is treasurer and will be in denominations ranging from five dollars upwards. They will be redeemed at the treasury of the joint committee after the celebration from the funds on hand and will without a doubt pay 50% and perhaps their face value. At Fond du Lac two years ago, the Veterans conducted a similar celebration, although not on such an elaborate scale or for three days, and paid back every subscription made and also had a thousand dollars left in their treasury. Peter L. Myers has donated to the committee one of the store buildings he owns at the corner of Milwaukee and South Main streets for the headquarters and headquarters department, and the tower City Hill. Postings Company, has offered the use of all their boards in the city to the committee for the use of their bills. Several auto owners have also offered the use of their cars for the work of the committee, showing that considerable interest has already been aroused in the event.

ONE CIRCUS DAY DRUNK IN COURT

Frank King, Colored, Only Disturber of Peace Yesterday, Arraigned in Municipal Court.

Determined to rival if not outclass the show given in Spring Brook, Frank King, colored, who has been employed about the city as porter, started a little circus of his own, with King Aleck as the flagman. The performance, however, was not altogether a success and was of short duration. King was taken in charge by the local officers and arraigned this morning for drunkenness. He pleaded guilty and made arrangements to pay a fine of $3 and costs.

An unusually peaceable state of affairs reigned in the city yesterday for a circus day. Special Police Officer Edward Hallen, assisted the local force, but complaints were few and the police had little difficulty in watching the crowds. They were, however, vigilant, and this undoubtedly tended to stop any unusual demonstrations.

WOMAN LEAVES PURSE ON BOX IN FRONT OF STORE, BUT DOES NOT LOSE IT

Almost unbelievable faith in the honesty of mankind, and especially so in a circus day crowd, was displayed by a local woman yesterday, who left her pocketbook on a shoe box standing in front of a local shoe store. The purse contained four dollars in money and the woman went on down the street and left it there, absent-mindedly, and then returned, expecting to find it again. That it was returned to her was chiefly due to good fortune. A passerby reported the matter to Chief of Police George Appleby and

THE FREE LIST BILL WON OUT IN HOUSE

PASSES HOUSE BY OVERWHELMING VOTE OF 238 TO 103.

CANNON AND MANN OPPOSE IT

Twenty-Four Republicans Break Away and Support the Measure—Reciprocity Pact Is Given Hearing Before the Senate Finance Committee.

Washington, May 9.—The house by a vote of 238 to 103 passed the Democratic free list bill. The vote came after a desperate filibuster on the part of the Republicans. It began when the bill was placed on passage and did not cease until 100 amendments offered by Speaker Clark's "steam roller." Every amendment offered was declared out of order.

There were 24 Republicans voting for the bill on final passage, made up of the "progressives" from the middle west.

It is believed the decisive victory the bill got in the house will go far towards securing for it consideration in the senate, although it may not pass that body.

The Republicans voting for the bill were Anthony, Anderson, Davis, Hunsman, Hubbard, Jackson, Kent, Kopp, La Follette, Leont, Lindbergh, Madison, Miller, Morgan, Merz, Murdock, Nelson, Norris, Roberts (Nev.), Stearns, Volstead, Warburton, Baerger (Socialist), Holgren, Akin (N. Y.).

Mann Moves to Recommit.

Before the vote could be had Mann moved to recommit the bill to the committee on ways and means with instructions to amend it so as to provide it should not be taken advantage of by those countries not giving the United States equal tariff treatment with other nations.

Speaker Clark overruled the motion on the ground that it was not germane in that the instructions were overruled when the bill was under consideration in committee of the whole. On an appeal from the decision of the speaker, on motion of Mann, all Republicans voted against the speaker who was sustained by a party vote of 219 to 120.

Reciprocity Pact Before Senate.

Consideration of Canadian reciprocity began in earnest on the senate side of the capitol when the committee on finance took up the bill.

Protests of book paper manufacturers against reciprocity were made first. George Sullivan, representing a Philadelphia company, asserted that because of the vast wood supply and cheap water power in Canada, with advantages in the duty on raw material, Canadian book paper manufacturers could make their product at seven dollars a ton less than Americans. He declared the "agreement" would put the American manufacturers out of business. Mr. Sullivan said there were 40 book paper mills in the United States, with 30,000 employees. The only book paper Americans export is Bible paper.

Denounced in Farmers' Pica.

Representatives of the farmers of thirteen or fourteen states followed the book paper manufacturers in protest against the bill. Ex-Gov. N. J. Buchholder of New Hampshire, master of the national grange, denounced the bill as a violation of the pledge of the Republican national platform of 1908 to maintain protection of the country's industries equal to the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad.

"Are cattle, sheep and hogs, wheat, oats, butter, eggs and potatoes controlled by trusts?" asked Governor Buchholder of the Democratic senators, up he referred to the Democratic platform. "If not, why put them on the free list instead of on a revenue basis, as your platform demands?"

The fact that a "so-called farmers' free list bill" had been introduced, he said, was an admission that the farmers would be injured.

To Place Wool on Free List.

That the ways and means committee will put raw wool on the free list in revising schedule K was declared to be practically certain and resulted in a caucus of the Democratic delegation from New York, at which 15 members declared themselves in favor of free raw wool, and four argued against it. All pledged themselves to abide by the decision of the full Democratic caucus.

FIVE CHILDREN ARE CREMATED.

Stairway of Home Burns, They Die in Room on Upper Floor.

Charlottesville, Va., May 9.—Five of the six children of Sanford Davis, a farmer residing near Free Union, Albemarle county, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the Davis home. Davis and his wife and an infant escaped. The dead children ranged in age from three to fifteen years. They slept in a room on the second floor, reached by narrow stairs.

When discovered the fire already had eaten its way to the stairway.

Railway Industrial Association.

Detroit, Mich., May 9.—The annual meeting of the American Railway Industrial Association, which opened in the Hotel Cadillac today, has attracted a large attendance. President M. V. Richards of Washington is in the chair and on the program are addresses by President J. L. Snyder of the Michigan Agricultural College, Secretary Walter Moore of the National Association of Commercial Executives and others.

$115,000 PECULATION CONFESSED BY TELLER

Cleveland Bank Employee Bares Crime —Is Sent to Jail—Unable to Furnish Bail.

Cleveland, O., May 9.—Julius W. Hopkins, paying teller of the First National bank, one of the most trusted men of the bank's staff of employees, was arrested after confessing to peculations of $115,000 during a period of eight years. He was placed in the county jail in default of bail.

A warrant issued by United States District Attorney Day specifically charged him with the theft of $50,000.

According to the bank officials Hopkins confessed to them three days ago, Hopkins, according to this alleged confession, had been taking small amounts for eight years and by juggling his entry accounts he succeeded in evading disclosure. He was in charge of the correspondence and, according to the officials, his accounts would show a certain amount of money in transit, whereas the actual amount was below his figures. He handled a million dollars almost constantly. Most of the embezzled money, bank officials say, was invested in a manufacturing concern of which Hopkins was the head.

When arraigned before United States Commissioner Walther, Hopkins waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to await action by the grand jury. Bond was fixed at $50,000.

Hopkins was unable to give bail and was taken to jail. It is asserted that he claimed to have lost the money in unsuccessful business deals.

Charles E. Farnsworth, cashier of the First National bank, made the following statement:

"One of our trusted employees, Julius W. Hopkins, is a defaulter in the sum of $115,850, which amount he has abstracted from express packages containing currency sent us by the national banking department at Washington."

"The bank is fully protected by a blanket guaranty policy issued by London Lloyd's, so that the loss will not fall upon the bank."

43 FIREMEN IMPERILED BY SMOKE AND FUMES

Fire Fighters Are Overcome by Noxious Chemicals in Drug Warehouse Fire—All Saved.

Chicago, May 9.—Forty-three firemen almost met death through asphyxiation from fumes of gases and dense smoke when for four hours they battled with flames which threatened to destroy the Merchants' Trust building, 156 West Washington street.

The fire is said to have been caused by an explosion of chemicals in the basement storeroom of the George H. May drug store. There was little blaze, and when the firemen arrived occupants of the building sought places in windows and on ledges and prepared to wait them. The chemicals in the basement, however, spread the flames and sent volumes of smoke up the elevator shafts and through the building.

A few minutes after the apparently trifling blaze had been discovered firemen were carrying out their comrades one after another; another alarm had been sent in, and women and men employed in the building were hurrying to safety.

In all, forty-three reeled from the effects of the fumes and smoke into the arms of other firemen and were carried to an improvised hospital on the sidewalk across the street.

There were many instances of heroism. Charles Jacobson and John Erickson, elevator men, remained in their cars until every person was out of the building, although a small panic followed the realization that the fire was spreading from the basement.

More than one hundred persons descended in the lifts, among them forty girls employed on the third floor.

Crelighton Suffers $50,000 Loss and Classes Are Suspended.

Omaha, Neb., May 9.—A stubborn fire which started in the elevator shaft of Crelighton college caused damage exceeding $50,000. Classes attended by 500 students will be suspended for some time. Water poured on the flames caused the ceilings to fall in the laboratories and classrooms and valuable apparatus in the physics department and music-rooms was badly damaged. No one was injured. Crelighton college is conducted by the Jesuit order. It is the largest institution of the kind in the west.

PRESIDENT MADE PLAIN STATEMENT

INFORMS FARMERS WILL PUSH RECIPROCITY BILL EVEN IF REPUBLICANS LOSE VOTES.

DENIES IT WILL INJURE ANY

President Says All Classes Will Gain by Freer Trade With Canada—Puts Treaty Above His Personal Political Fortunes.

Washington, May 9.—President Taft informed the members of the National Grange who called on him that he doesn't intend to play politics with the Canadian reciprocity agreement even if the passage of that measure by congress should result in his losing the votes of the farmers.

The president said he was sorry to hear that Republican farmers would desert the party if the agreement goes through, but that fear of such desertion would not change his conviction as to the wisdom of such legislation. He said he believed reciprocity to be the best thing for the whole country and that he did not intend to argue it.

N. P. Hull, spokesman for the farmers, intimated strongly that Republican votes are likely to be lost if reciprocity is passed.

"If reciprocity goes through," he said, "it means that we must take less for our wheat and less for our products and will injure the Republican states of Michigan, Wisconsin, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont."

Taft Uses Plain Talk.

"I have no disposition to interfere with the prosperity of those who make up the bone and sinew of our population—the farmers—and I am convinced that I am in no way interfering with it," said the president. "If I am—if we carry through this treaty and it turns out that it does produce injury, it can be repealed by a single congress. I am convinced that after it has been given one year's trial neither side will think of reversing it. That is my conviction. I cannot go into an argument."

"You say that Republican farmers are going to desert us if we put that through. I am sorry if that be the case, because I have a personal liking for the Republican farmers a little more than for the Democratic farmers, although they are all citizens of the United States."

"But my conviction with respect to the advantage of this treaty is deep. So far as the effect of this on my personal political fortunes it ought not to influence me and does not influence me in the slightest. I believe this treaty to be the best thing for the whole country, including farmers, merchants, laboring men, and all."

CROWLEY IS CITED BY MORMONS.

Ex-Apostle Faces Trial for Opposing Manifesto Against Polygamy.

Salt Lake City, May 9.—Matthew F. Crowley is to be cited for trial on Wednesday before the council of the twelve apostles of the Mormon church. The charges against him are exactly like those on which John W. Taylor was excommunicated last Wednesday.

Until 1906 Crowley and Taylor were apostles. Both are well past middle life and wealthy. They were allowed to resign as apostles because of their opposition to the Woodruff manifesto against polygamy. Taylor being charged with having taken a second plural wife as long after the manifesto as 1893 and with performing plural marriages for others in Mexico.

KENYON AFTER TRUST OFFICERS

Iowa Senator Proposes Jail Sentences For Sherman Law Violators.

Washington, May 9.—Three changes in the Sherman anti-trust law were proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who has just vacated the office of "trust buster" in the department of justice.

His bill would make jail sentences compulsory for individual violators of the law and would provide that a patent shall be forfeited where the patentee joins with others to restrain trade.

The third change would make illegal the purchase or ownership of stock in a computing corporation engaged in interstate commerce.

FORBES PROVES EASY VICTOR.

Former Bantam Champion "Comes Back"—Knocks Out Fitzgerald.

Gary, Ind., May 9.—Harry Forbes, the "come back" champion, won a decisive victory over Young Fitzgerald of Milwaukee before the National Athletic club of Gary and thereby clinched his match with Johnny Coulton at Toronto, Canada, May 19. He floored Fitzgerald twice in the third round and the Milwaukee boy's seconds tossed in the towel.

Forbes won the fight by his superior ring knowledge and generalship and although Fitzgerald showed his cleverness at times he was no match for the former bantam champion.

DIRECT VOTE BILL ADVANCED.

Senate Places House Resolution in Position of Preference.

Washington, May 9.—After disposing of the technical parliamentary obstacles Senator Borah of Idaho succeeded in having the senate consider the house joint resolution to amend the Constitution so as to provide for the election of United States senators by popular vote. The effect is to make the resolution the unfinished business and thus give it preference.

The order was made on a roll call, but out of 71 votes only Senator Brandegee, Burnham, Gallinger, Heyburn and Penrose voted in the negative.

It is hoped to reduce pauperism to a minimum through this plan.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

"THE want of consideration shown people who patronize stores on holidays" has been suggested by a reader as something that I would do well to bring before the public, especially those who profess themselves to be interested in the working classes.

I thank my correspondent. I would my pen were a really powerful one that might present this subject even half as forcibly as I should like to.

That we are all in our power to prevent has long been a favorite doctrine of mine.

To put it in concrete form—if I see a banana peel on the sidewalk and do not push it off into the gutter or throw it into a waste barrel, and later a man slips on this peel and injures himself I share with the man who threw the peel down there and the others who have seen it and passed by, the responsibility for that man's fall.

Now perhaps this may be a rather strenuous point of view for general acceptance, but surely no one will doubt that we do share the responsibility for the conditions we actually help to create.

That is if we patronize a shop on a holiday we are partly responsible for its being kept open holidays.

As my correspondent very clearly and forcibly puts it, "Shops keep open because, judging from former occasions, large receipts are expected, and whenever we make a purchase on a holiday we cast a vote that the employer of that store will never have a day of rest other than Sunday. We should be considerate, then, and when we patronize a store, be careful not to celebrate it by spoiling whatever chance the people employed in stores may have of obtaining a similar privilege in the future."

In the same way shopping at night and on Saturday afternoon tends to prolong the working hours of those who serve us, and put off the day when they shall have the half-holiday.

It is very natural to say, "This shop keeps open anyway. It will make no difference whether I patronize it or not." But it does make a difference. It is just because hundreds of people are saying this same thing that the shops do keep open.

Of course you are only one single person, but then remember that the throng of purchasers that passed in and out all the evening were only a number of "one single persons."

If each would feel his responsibility in the matter enough to do his shopping at a reasonable hour the shopkeeper would have no motive for keeping open to unreasonable hours.

Of course, this may mean a little inconvenience sometimes, but surely anyone who is interested in the hard worked clerks and shop girls will admit that it is in a very good cause.

CONTROLLING AN UNRULY MEMBER.

"Silent tongue, slight trouble." You've no doubt heard this bit of advice many times before, but in many different forms. People talk too much, far too much for their own peace, happiness and comfort.

Much of the world's trouble is due to the busy tongues of people who know no restraint. Half of the wrecked homes at least are due to the same cause. Many of the heart breaks are occasioned by too much talking of some one.

There are many who think they have a license to say what they think whenever they please and this is the type of person who upsets the equilibrium of society. This is the type of person who destroys far more than they can ever right and usually the kind that does not appreciate the full importance of the damage they do.

If people would only learn to realize that there are limitations to even one's imaginations and that one has no right to express an opinion about the character or the actions of another without the surest foundation for the belief. Even the facts, when told, must have the same sort of foundation.

But the busy tongue not only makes trouble for others, but also for its owner. The train of evils it brings home to rest are almost incalculable. Society has little use for the gossip or the scandal monger. It certainly has little patience with the man or woman of thoughtless tongue. Yet this last class is more dangerous than the former because the harm they do is done under the guise of innocence. And then, too, because they have never been put in the classification of scandal mongers their mouthings carry conviction. It is the person who is seemingly not given to talking maliciously who can make or mar reputations. The person who is known to talk about people merely is taken seriously. Their talk has not the weight of conviction for they have established their own reputation, which comes back upon them with a vengeance.

Many a person has spoiled his chances for success and happiness by too free expression or too wild speculations in regard to the actions of others. It is easy to misjudge our friends and associates because we have no way of getting at their motives. If one might get inside of another person and live his experiences and think his thoughts then might he form an accurate estimate of his intent and purpose, but that being impossible it is also quite impossible for any of us to understand why other people do certain things of which we do not approve.

Life is too good to have its sweetness destroyed by the thoughtless use of the tongue, which has been very aptly called the "unruly member." Life is too beautiful to spoil for one's self and it is too beautiful to spoil for others.

Life is sweet just as we make it. It is bitter as we make it and the bitterest ingredient that goes into it is the trouble we make with our tongues.

Olive Oil as a Food and Medicine.
Olive oil is a food that is good for "some of the people all of the time," and all of the people some of the time. It is a good food taken clear, when possible, or on salads as dressing. It serves as a food when rubbed into the skin, filling out hollows, limbering the stiffened joints and as a medicine it relieves pain, is a good remedy for indigestion and is recommended for those afflicted with gall stones.

Good nutty oil of good flavor and odor should always be purchased for the impure and adulterated oils are more often the cause of the distress some people have for olive oil than any other reason.

For those who do not care for a rich mayonnaise dressing, one may add oil to a boiled dressing instead of using butter, and thus cultivate the taste for oil in those who object to its use.

The French dressing is one which is deservedly popular, for it is so simple to prepare, so wholesome and appetizing. Less vinegar is used than formerly in the preparation of French dressing, a little of that acid going a long way. Three tablespoonfuls, or four of oil and one of vinegar with salt and pepper, makes a dressing of good consistency. Beat the oil and vinegar well with a Dover egg beater, or if made at the table, stir with a fork until it is all well blended.

Olive oil is the ideal fat for deep frying; but for ordinary mortals it is beyond the pocketbook.

Oil may be used in many ways in cooking, adding to the nutritive value of the dish.

Things Worth Remembering.

USEFUL COSTUME.

Here is a very compact little costume for everyday wear; it is suitable for almost any firm woolen material, especially tweed, in which there are so many soft colorings this season.

The skirt is a seven-gored pattern and is made quite a short walking length; all the seams are wrapped. The left front of coat is cut to wrap over with a square sort of tab, that is fastened by hooks and eyes or press studs.

Silver and Gold Nets.
Instead of buying a hair net which will be invisible when worn over an elaborate coiffure, the fashionable woman now buys one of silver or gold with which to keep in order her lovely tresses.

The chignon, the most popular of new hair effects, is covered with this linked and shimmering metallic net, and when the hair is a lustrous black the effect of a gold net over the dark hair is distinctly unique.

A COMMUNICATION.

Editor, Janesville Daily Gazette.
Dear Sir: My attention has been called to an article by Ruth Cameron published in your paper on Monday, May 1st, 1911. It seems that Miss Cameron, much as I admire her ability as a writer, has been misled in her conviction as regards the person to be employed for refractive work.

It is very true that the eye, as Miss Cameron stated, is a gross many instances, is the cause of all the numerous and many other functional derangements of the nervous system are often nothing else but symptoms of eye-strain, and will disappear by wearing properly fitted glasses and the intelligent use and care of the eyes, and also the advice as to the care you should take in selecting the person to fit you to a pair of glasses. Because there are indeed a great many incompetent persons who pose as specialists, yet know absolutely nothing about the fundamental principles of the practice of optometry; much less about anatomy, physiology and the nervous and muscular system of the eye.

Yes, indeed, I would much rather trust myself to a safe counter, than a man who does not know his business. But when Miss Cameron talks about the folly of the optician and holds that the only person who can do refracting in a skilled way, is an oculist, she does not state the case correctly.

As today the Optometrists, or commonly called Opticians, have among their class some of the highest and most able men to refract a case of eye-strain, and as the fitting of glasses is a purely mechanical operation, I hold that the man best fitted to do this work is the one who has had special training in this line.

A lens is not a pill, and for that reason it does not take an oculist to administer same. If you want your horse shod you do not go to a veterinary surgeon, but you go to the blacksmith and get better results, because he has the proper training, and if the blacksmith finds that there is something wrong with the horse's hoof (a disease being the cause) he will tell you to go to the veterinary surgeon.

The same way with the well-trained optometrist, if he when in examining your eyes for the fitting of glasses finds that you require the services of an oculist, he will inform you thus. The practice of optometry is becoming more and more recognized every day, and at the present time twenty-six states of the Union have State Boards of Optometry, fourteen other States have bills up now, and this will help to remove the incompetents. And furthermore, Columbia University has established a chair of optometry showing that the practice of fitting glasses is a separate profession, all of its own not requiring medical skill.

As regards the young lady who Miss Cameron mentioned who bought a pair of glasses at $27.00 from an oculist and worked at $7.00 per week, saving nine weeks to buy a pair of glasses. Think what that would mean to a working man, who, with himself and wife and four or five children, has to get along on $8.00 or $10.00 a week, and if they would have to wear glasses in order to get an education, (I just think 6 times 27 equals 162.) They would have spectacles but nothing else.

It might be worth $27.00 if the case was one of disease and if this young lady whom Miss Cameron refers to would have first gone to an optometrist, one who understands his business, he could have told her whether or not he ought to see an oculist, and a competent optometrist will not hesitate to do so.

Trusting you may give this letter a space in your valuable paper on the Woman's Page, I wish to thank you in advance.

Sincerely,
JOSEPH SCHOLLER,
Treasurer Wisconsin State Association of Optometrists.

Ask the average man of the house if he enjoys the house cleaning period and he will tell you no, and will not even consider for a second. "The average man is like a house cat, he wants everything comfortable and doesn't want the fuss and bother of the changing around, rehanging of pictures he has become accustomed to in one place, the banishing of his easy chair to the attic, and other changes that are sure to come."

He does not appreciate the picked up meals, the odds and ends that are left for him to do when he comes home and the spring and fall cleaning germ which pervades in every well regulated household is to him a period of unrest and unpleasant disturbances, that he could well forego the pleasure of, if it were possible.

How do you keep house? What methods do you use to keep the entire household happy and contented and still accomplish your work? It is worth while telling it and the Feature Editor of the Gazette would be glad to have you explain the mystery, so that others may profit by your experience. Write on one side of the paper only, and mail to the Feature Editor of the Gazette and try for one of the various prizes.

NEW STYLES IN BLOUSES

Care Should Be Used in Selecting Material That Will Harmonize With Wardrobe.

The introduction of color on blouses for everyday wear is attractive. The use of anything but white has its disadvantage in that it compels the wearer to cling to one color scheme throughout the costume; and every woman knows how annoying it is to find that she only has a blue blouse clean when she is wearing a brown suit.

The way to overcome this is to choose one's blouses rather carefully after one has made up a plan for the summer wardrobe. If you make your blouses now in haphazard fashion, you may be compelled to get suits and hats to go with them—which is putting the cart before the horse.

Some women keep to one color scheme as nearly as possible throughout the season; they know that blue and green and black, possibly, are their chief colors, and they hold on to these regardless of what the dyes and the manufacturers produce. This is the secret of really good dressing, and you will find, upon observation, that it is the method of nearly all the women who are conspicuous for taste in clothes.

If you know your own mind quite thoroughly in regard to the colors you will choose for your spring and summer suits, then it is quite wise to go ahead with your blouses; but if not, it is best to confine one's self to the choice of black, pin-dotted, with white, and dark bright blue, which goes with such a quantity of other colors.

The big bands are in very good style this year, and they are among the chief colors introduced on white materials. Golden browns, soft shades of green, and many tones of blue are used, as well as corals, pomegranate red, and any of the new wine tones.

Pink is to be in high fashion this summer, in all shades but the pastel ones; Killarney pink, coral, flame and watermelon are among the tones we will see most used on white sheer blouses of muslin, marquisette and batiste. Pinely dotted whites will also come into favor as a fabric for blouses, and it will have many adherents, as it wears and washes well and looks exceptionally attractive under linen suits.

FREDERICK VON SCHILLER.
May 9.—When Schiller the German poet was born Nov. 11, 1759, his parents must have had a "hunch" that he was going to be some pumpkin in the art line so they christened him Johann Christoph Frederick von Schiller. With this handicap he started out and received his first instructions from the parish priest and then went to college and studied law. He didn't like it, so he turned his attention to medicine. The people of his native town, Wurtemberg, were so healthy that instead of mixing pills he had time to turn his hand to poetry. He made such a success of this that his plays and poems became the rage and no German highbrow functionary was a complete success without a reading from some of his works. He became a chum friend of Goethe, and the latter's influence is said to be responsible for the scope and finish of Schiller's works. He died on May 9, 1805, at the comparatively early age of 45. Schiller did not write "Die Wacht am Rhein," or "Hail to the Colors."

SCIENTIFIC SUGGESTION MORE EFFECTIVE THAN CULTISM.

Mental influence, by suggestion scientifically applied or through a cult, is often remarkably effective, but it can not always be so. Mental stimulation will revive digestion and elimination, restoring nutrition, thus affecting all functional diseases, but it can never set a broken bone or supply lime to form new bone. Life is the continuous adaptation of internal to external relations, and so long as we live in a material world we must conform to physical law. Recognition of physical conditions and dependence upon them is a prime means of suggestion. Faith is the condition of effective suggestion, and there should never be a lack of faith in the laws of nature. The knowledge that wheat or nuts or unpolished rice will supply when properly digested the elements needed by the blood to mend the broken bone will furnish a favorable mental condition for the accomplishment of the work. Scientific suggestion is, therefore, more effective than cultism, especially as knowledge is so widely prevalent and tending to upset superstitions.

'Cascarets' End All the Miserable Days

A Ten Cent Box Insures You Against A Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation or a Bad Stomach for a Long Time.

Primitive man did not need Cascarets. They lived outdoors, ate plenty of fruit, and all their food was coarse. We modern people are different. We exercise too little, eat little fruit, and our food is too fine, too rich.

We can't have the bowels clogged up and keep well. It means that the food retained there decays. The decay creates poisons. And these poisons are sucked into the blood through the very ducts intended to suck in the nutriment. So we must make our choice. We must live, to an extent, like the primitive man, else we must eat Cascarets.

Cascarets do what the right food would do, what plenty of exercise does. The effect is as rapid from one as the other. The question is one of convenience. If you choose Cascarets, take them as you take food, not in large doses rarely, but a tablet at a time. That is the way to keep well. Get a ten cent box now.

LIVING PICTURES BY JANESVILLE PEOPLE PROVE BIG SUCCESS

Famous Paintings Were Represented in Life Size By Local People In
D. A. R. Entertainment
Last Evening.

In a reproduction of some of the world's famous pictures by well known artists, the living picture entertainment under the auspices of the Janesville chapter of the D. A. R. in library hall last evening, proved a huge success. About a dozen poses with the pictures were given from within an life sized frame before a throng of people. To better bring out the details, a powerful spot light was used which served to make the representations startling in their similarity to the masterpieces.

The posing was under the suggestions of Mr. Clarkson of the Art Institute of Chicago, who so successfully carried off the similar event in that city a year ago. The pictures from which the poses were taken were very kindly loaned by the institute through Mr. Clarkson. The pictures were mostly colonial scenes of the Gadsborough and Reynolds type.

The first picture was that of "George Washington" and was posed in a more realistic manner by A. E. Matheson as was "Martha Washington" by Mrs. George Parker. Among the same line was the representation of "George Washington and Mary Carter" by Mrs. A. E. Matheson. The poses which lasted about ten seconds were repeatedly changed and the tableaux were brought on again and again.

Several musical numbers by the Janesville Symphony orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Taylor, were delightfully rendered and added much to the program. A charming vocal solo by Mrs. J. L. Wilcox was also very much enjoyed. "Madame Lo Brum and Daughter" was the title of the picture very cleverly posed by Mrs. W. V. Wheelock and Miss Peggy Smith.

This was followed by reproductions of two very well known pictures, "Girl with a Staff" and "The Colonial Girl," done by Mrs. Margaret Field and Mrs. S. M. Smith respectively. These met with hearty applause and the next three poses. These were "Mrs. Siddons" by Mrs. William Rucker, Jr., "Portrait of a Young Girl" by Miss Josephine Rucker and "Dorothy Q." by Florence Nugent. The latter picture was accompanied by a reading by Mrs. Francis Grant.

Mrs. J. G. Rexford portrayed that famous painting, "The Duchess of Devonshire" in an excellent manner and "Cecilia" was beautifully done by Mrs. W. V. Wheelock. Several of the pictures were accompanied by readings which made them very effective. Such a one was the "Boston Tea Party," the parts being taken by Mrs. Rucker, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Rucker and Miss Anna Griebel. During the tableau Miss Anna Griebel read "The Dance of the Rose" and "Pleasant from Pompeii," two excellent scenes in which the following took part: Misses Margaret Dory, Margaret Allen, Ruth Humphrey, Lucille Hyde, Verellia Rowley, Whitford Granger, Linda Stinson and Sara Garbutt.

George S. Parker announced the pictures and Prof. Arbutnot had charge of the lighting effects. There was not a hitch in the whole program and much credit is due to the participants for the planning in which this innovation was carried out.

EDWARD J. SMITH HAS RETIRED FROM FIRM OF ZIEGLER AND CO.

Joseph M. Connors Succeeds Him As Manager, Purchasing His Stock
in Concern.

Edward J. Smith, for the past twenty years manager of the T. J. Ziegler Clothing company, retired from active work on Saturday evening last, his interest in the concern being purchased by Joseph M. Connors, who succeeds him as manager. Mr. Smith's retirement is due to poor health and, while his plans are as yet undecided, he has been advised to take a year of complete rest before entering any other business. He will leave for Chicago in a day or two and later will spend several months at his summer cottage at Lake Kegonsa where he will be joined by his son, Fred Smith, of Chicago, and wife.

Mr. Smith will be missed in Janesville where he has always held such a prominent business position. He is perhaps the oldest active clothing merchant in Janesville, having been engaged in this line of business for the past thirty-five years. He began his career with the firm of Brown & Friend, who had their store where the Myers hotel office is now located, and later he worked for Sonneborn. In 1886 he became associated with the T. J. Ziegler company, a few years later assuming the management of the store.

Joseph M. Connors, who succeeds Mr. Smith as manager and vice president of the company, has been employed with the T. J. Ziegler company since 1892, and when the company was reorganized several years ago, was made a member of the firm. He has been prominent in the business world of the city and is known as one of the progressives. His long experience in the clothing business, particularly with the firm he now manages, has fitted him for the position he has attained.

The announcement of the change will come as a surprise to many in the city, who will unite in regretting Mr. Smith's health is such that he must retire from active work, and will also unite in congratulating Mr. Connors upon his new responsibility. The name of the firm will continue, as in the past, Mrs. Ziegler of Chicago and Mr. Connors owning all the stock.

Food in Bermons.
Feed the Dominie Night and the Sermons are Brilliant.

A conscientious, hard working and successful clergyman writes: "I am glad to bear testimony to the pleasure and increased measure of efficiency and health that have come to me from adopting Grape-Nuts food as one of my articles of diet."

"For several years I was much distressed during the early part of each day by indigestion. My breakfast seemed to turn sour and failed to digest. After dinner the headache and other symptoms following the breakfast would wear away, only to return, however, next morning."

"Having heard of Grape-Nuts food, I finally concluded to give it a trial. I made my breakfasts of Grape-Nuts with cream, toast and Postum. The result was surprising in improved health and total absence of the distress that had for so long a time, followed the morning meal."

"My digestion became much more satisfactory, the headaches ceased, and the old feeling of energy returned. Since that time I have always had Grape-Nuts food on my breakfast table."

"I was delighted to find also, that whereas before I began using Grape-Nuts food I was quite nervous and became easily worried in the work of preparing sermons and in study, a marked improvement in this respect resulted from the change in my diet."

"I am convinced that Grape-Nuts food produced this result and helped me to a sturdy condition of mental and physical strength."

"I have known of several persons who were formerly troubled as I was, and who have been helped as I have been, by the use of Grape-Nuts food, on my recommendation." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

The rumors on the streets of the death of Mrs. J. M. Kimball are unfounded. She was very low when last heard from, but intelligence of her death has not been received.

At the meeting for the purpose of making arrangements to celebrate the fourth of July, held last evening, a committee was appointed to work up the matter. The meeting adjourned on Friday night.

We see by the circus posters displayed about town that Mr. Conrad and his sons, Henry and Charles, are to perform acrobatic feats in a few days. As Charles is in New Orleans, and Henry is overburdened with winter wheat flour business, we don't see how this can be.

EDWARD J. SMITH HAS RETIRED FROM FIRM OF ZIEGLER AND CO.

Joseph M. Connors Succeeds Him As
Manager, Purchasing His Stock
in Concern.

Edward J. Smith, for the past twenty years manager of the T. J. Ziegler Clothing company, retired from active work on Saturday evening last, his interest in the concern being purchased by Joseph M. Connors, who succeeds him as manager. Mr. Smith's retirement is due to poor health and, while his plans are as yet undecided, he has been advised to take a year of complete rest before entering any other business. He will leave for Chicago in a day or two and later will spend several months at his summer cottage at Lake Kegonsa where he will be joined by his son, Fred Smith, of Chicago, and wife.

JOSEPH M. CONNORS, NEW MANAGER OF THE T. J. ZIEGLER COMPANY.

spend several months at his summer cottage at Lake Kegonsa where he will be joined by his son, Fred Smith, of Chicago, and wife.

Mr. Smith will be missed in Janesville where he has always held such a prominent business position. He is perhaps the oldest active clothing merchant in Janesville, having been engaged in this line of business for the past thirty-five years. He began his career with the firm of Brown & Friend, who had their store where the Myers hotel office is now located, and later he worked for Sonneborn. In 1886 he became associated with the T. J. Ziegler company, a few years later assuming the management of the store.

Joseph M. Connors, who succeeds Mr. Smith as manager and vice president of the company, has been employed with the T. J. Ziegler company since 1892, and when the company was reorganized several years ago, was made a member of the firm. He has been prominent in the business world of the city and is known as one of the progressives. His long experience in the clothing business, particularly with the firm he now manages, has fitted him for the position he has attained.

The announcement of the change will come as a surprise to many in the city, who will unite in regretting Mr. Smith's health is such that he must retire from active work, and will also unite in congratulating Mr. Connors upon his new responsibility. The name of the firm will continue, as in the past, Mrs. Ziegler of Chicago and Mr. Connors owning all the stock.

Historic Property Under Hammer.
New York, May 9.—One of New York's most famous and historical estates, known in late years as the Loyal L. Smith holdings of Washington Heights, was put up for sale at public auction today as a preliminary to being subdivided into building lots. Included in the sale was the old mansion, overlooking the Hudson River, which was owned by John Furber, the early part of the nineteenth century and for several years was occupied by President James Madison as a summer home.

Food in Bermons.
Feed the Dominie Night and the Sermons are Brilliant.

A conscientious, hard working and successful clergyman writes: "I am glad to bear testimony to the pleasure and increased measure of efficiency and health that have come to me from adopting Grape-Nuts food as one of my articles of diet."

"For several years I was much distressed during the early part of each day by indigestion. My breakfast seemed to turn sour and failed to digest. After dinner the headache and other symptoms following the breakfast would wear away, only to return, however, next morning."

"Having heard of Grape-Nuts food, I finally concluded to give it a trial. I made my breakfasts of Grape-Nuts with cream, toast and Postum. The result was surprising in improved health and total absence of the distress that had for so long a time, followed the morning meal."

"My digestion became much more satisfactory, the headaches ceased, and the old feeling of energy returned. Since that time I have always had Grape-Nuts food on my breakfast table."

"I was delighted to find also, that whereas before I began using Grape-Nuts food I was quite nervous and became easily worried in the work of preparing sermons and in study, a marked improvement in this respect resulted from the change in my diet."

"I am convinced that Grape-Nuts food produced this result and helped me to a sturdy condition of mental and physical strength."

"I have known of several persons who were formerly troubled as I was, and who have been helped as I have been, by the use of Grape-Nuts food, on my recommendation." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

"The Rosary."
Can one evil mind poison a whole household? Is the human brain capable of producing disastrous effects upon a household by adverse suggestive thoughts?

Do we realize adequately how our mental attitudes influence our lives and the lives of those about us?

All these questions are asked in "The Rosary," a new play by Edward J. Smith, and produced by Messrs. Gaskill and MacVitty.

And the answer? Well, the play is the answer.

For one half its course it builds up a condition of affairs in a typical American family of today. The inner life of each member is shown, and there is the subtle foreshadowing that all is not right, that one mind is that of Father Kelly, the priest, who solves the mystery and brings each member of the little family back to peace and happiness.

"The Rosary" will be seen at the Myers theatre, Saturday, May 10, matinee and evening.

This beautiful play has just finished a three months' engagement in Chicago, a two months' run at the Garden theatre, New York City, and is now the sensation of the year in Boston, where it is, crowding the Globe theatre nightly.

There are no words spoken directly that tell this, but it is the air, the tone, the point of view, who is working against the general harmony.

Then, suddenly the crash comes and the home is in chaos. The husband doubts his wife, drives her out and faces absolute ruin. Then comes the power of the mind that seeks only truth and goodness; the mind that has harbored only good thoughts. It is

DOINGS OF THE FAN LOONS—Perhaps Father will be able to use them for bathing trunks this summer.

Copyright, A. C. McClurg & Co., 1910.
 "Well, I wouldn't if I could help it. She don't seem like that kind, but I recognized her as soon as I got her face in the light. She was at the Gaiety in Independence, the last time

Across its Face Was Plainly Written, "Miss Christie MacLaire."

I was there. Hawley knew her too, and called her by name.
 "Neb rubbed his eyes, and slapped his pony's flank, unable to answer, yet still unconvinced.
 "I reckon both of yer might be mistaken," he insisted doggedly.
 "Not likely," Keith's brief laugh was not altogether devoid of bitterness. "We both called her Christie MacLaire, and she didn't even deny the name; she was evidently not proud of it, but there was no denial that she was the girl."

"That wasn't like no name that you called her when we was ridin'."
 "No; she didn't approve of the other, and told me to call her Hope, but I reckon she's Christie MacLaire all right."
 They rode on through the black, silent night as rapidly as their tired horses would consent to travel. Keith, directly across the open prairie, guiding his course by the stars, and purposely avoiding the trails, where some suspicious eyes might mark his passage. His first object was to get safely away from the scattered settlements lying east of Carson City. Beyond their radius he could safely disappear from view, and find time to develop future plans. As to the girl—well, he would keep his word with her, of course, and see her again sometime. There would be no difficulty about that, but otherwise she should retain no influence over him. She belonged rather to Hawley's class than his.

It was a lonely, tiresome ride, during which Neb made various efforts to talk, but finding his white companion uncommunicative, at last relapsed into rather sullen silence. The horses plodded on steadily, and when daylight finally dawned, the two men found themselves in a depression leading down to the Smoky River. Here they came to a water hole, where they could safely hide themselves and their stock. With both Indians and white men to be guarded against, they took all the necessary precautions, picking the horses closely under the rock shadows, and not venturing upon building any fire. Neb threw himself on the turf and was instantly asleep, but Keith climbed the steep side of the gully, and made searching survey of the horizon. The wide arid to the south, east and west revealed nothing to his searching eyes, except the dull brown of the slightly rolling plains, with no life apparently save some distant grazing antelope, but to the north extended more broken country with a faint glimmer of water between the hills. Satisfied they were unobserved, he slid back again into the depression. As he turned to the down he took hold of the saddle belonging to Hawley's horse. In the unbuckled holster his Pacific being temporarily suspended by Indian outbreaks, the graders made both night and day alike hideous, and the single dirty street which composed Sheridan, lined with shacks, crowded with saloons, the dull dead prairie stretching away on every side to the horizon, was congested with humanity during every hour of the twenty-four.

It was a grim picture of depravity and desolation, the environment dull, gloomy, forlorn; all that was worthy the eye or thought being the pulsing human element. All about extended the barren plains, except where on one side a ravine cut through an overhanging ridge. From the seething street one could look up to the summit, and see there the graves of the many who had died deaths of violence, and been borne thither in "their boots." Amid all this surrounding desolation was Sheridan—the child of a few brief months of existence, and destined to perish almost as quickly—the center of the grim picture, a mere cluster of rude, unpainted houses, poorly erected shacks, grimy tents flapping in the never ceasing wind swirling across the treeless waste, the ugly red cattle, the rough cowboys filled with lowing cattle, the huge, ungainly stores, their false fronts decorated by amateur welders of the paint brush, and the garish deers of vice tucked in everywhere.

The pendulum of life never ceased swinging. Society was mixed; no man cared who his neighbor was, or dared to question. Of women worthy the name there were few, yet there were fitting female forms in plenty, the saloon lights revealing powdered cheeks and painted eyebrows. It was a strange, restless populace, the majority here to-day, disappearing tomorrow—cowboys, half-breeds, trackmen, graders, desperadoes, gamblers, saloon-keepers, merchants, generally Jewish, petty officials, and a riff-raff no one could account for, mere floating debris. The town was an eddy catching odd bits of driftwood such as only the frontier ever knew. Quaker characters were everywhere, wrecks of dissipation, derelicts of the East, seeking nothing save oblivion.

Everything was primitive—passion and pleasure ruled. To spend easily made money noisily, brazenly, was the ideal. From dawn to dawn the search after joy continued. The bachelors and dance halls were ablaze; the bar-rooms crowded with hilarious or quarrelsome humanity, the gambling tables alive with excitement. Men swaggered along the streets looking for trouble, and generally finding it; cowboys rode into open saloon doors and drank in the saddle; troops of congenial spirits, frenzied with liquor, spurred recklessly through the street firing into the air, or the crowd, as their whim led; bands played popular airs on balconies, and innumerable "barkers" added their honeyed invitations to the perpetual din. From end to end it was a saturnalia of vice, a babel of sound, a glimpse of the inferno. Money flowed like water; every man was his own law, and the gun the arbiter of destiny. The town marshal, and a few cool-headed deputies moved here and there amid the chaos, patient, tireless, undaunted, seeking merely to exercise some slight restraint. This was Sheridan.

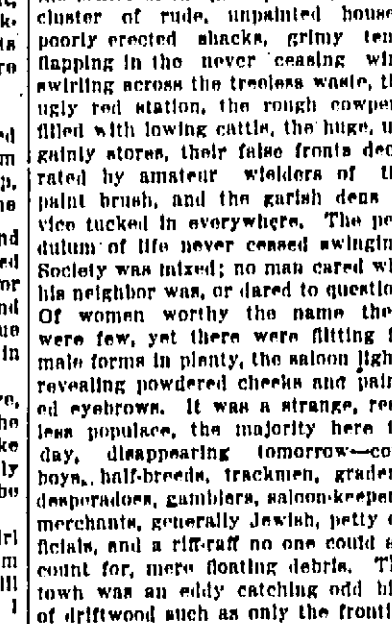

Into the one long street just at dusk rode Keith and Neb, the third horse trailing behind. Already lights were beginning to gleam in the crowded saloons, and they were obliged to proceed slowly. Leaving the negro at the corral to find some purchaser for the animals, and such accommodations for himself as he could achieve, Keith shouldered his way on foot through the heterogeneous mass toward the only hotel, a long two-storied wooden structure, unpainted, fronting the glitter of the Pioneer Dance Hall opposite. A noisy band was splitting the air with discordant notes, a loud-voiced "barker" yelling through the uproar, but Keith, accustomed to similar scenes and sounds elsewhere, strode through the open door of the hotel, and guided by the noisy, continuous clatter of dishes, easily found his way to the dining-room, it was crowded with men, a few women scattered here and there, most of the former in shirt-sleeves, all eating silently. A few smaller tables at the back of the room were distinguished from the others by white coverings in place of oil-cloth, evidently reserved for the more distinguished guests. Dazzling ceremony, the new comer worried his way through, finally discovering a vacant seat where his back would be to the wall, thus enabling him to survey the entire apartment.

It was not of great interest, the prime of constant change and the primitive manner in which the majority attacked their food supply, which was

CHAPTER XVI.

Introducing Doctor Fairbairn. Heed as they were, and having no other special objective point in view, it was only natural for the two fugitives to drift into Sheridan. This was at that time the human cesspool of the plains country, a seething, boiling maelstrom of all that was rough, evil, and brazen along the entire frontier. Customarily quiet enough during the hours of daylight, the town became a mad saturnalia with the approach of darkness, its ceaseless uproar being nobly continued until dawn. But at this period all track work on the Kansas
